Individuals interested in becoming licensed Arkansas public school teachers are encouraged to attend the Arkansas Department of Education's Teach Arkansas Information Session, which is set for 10 a.m. to noon Saturday, Oct. 11, at the Dumas Community Center located at 18 Belmont Drive.

This session is one of several regional meetings being conducted across the state by the department's Teacher Recruitment program. During the session, participants will have an opportunity to receive information on teacher education programs at Arkansas colleges and universities, as well as financial aid and teacher incentive programs. Information on the Arkansas Department of Education's Non-Traditional Licensure Program will also be available for participants.

"The purpose of these community-based information sessions is to have an opportunity to meet one-on-one with Arkansans who are seriously interested in pursuing a career in education," said Camille Sterrett, ADE's teacher recruitment and retention program advisor. "We want to recruit teachers to our public schools who are committed to their communities, to their students and to building a better future for our state. By giving potential teachers information and guidance, we can help them to build a rewarding career in the field of education."

The Arkansas Department of Education strives to ensure that all children in the state have access to a quality education by providing educators, administrators and staff with leadership, resources and training.
